Certification of wood pellets - procedure number: 3182955
Results of the validation of routine monitoring 2016

Dear Mr. Brandsma,

Thank you for your kind assistance during our visit of your factory on 2016-06-09.

The testing laboratory SGS Fresenius Institute sent us the test report No. 3002047 dated 2016-07-07 of the type testing for your wood pellets, which were sampled during the factory inspection.

Based on the conformity assessment of the factory inspection, the documents submitted with your e-mail dated 2016-06-23 and 2016-07-15 and test results according to the certification scheme for wood pellets (Edition: 2015-06) no deviation exist:

In the following please find a comparison of test results of your monitoring in the factory and the results, determined in our partner laboratory for your information:

No.	Characteristic	Monitoring in your factory	Test results of laboratory
1	Water Content [%]	6.05	5.80
2	Bulk density [kg/m ³]	667	671
3	Mechanical durability [%]	97.89	98.30

The ash melting temperature of your wood pellets is determined with 1,380 °C (recommended value minimum: 1,200 °C).

We are pleased to inform you, that due to the positive assessment in regard to the DINplus certification scheme you are further authorized to use the quality mark "DINplus" with the registration number 7A261 for your wood pellets.

Herewith, the file having been handled under the procedure number 3182955 is closed.
